DETAILED ACTION

1. The previously Office Action has been withdrawn because the mistake was made in the rejection. The new Office Action is issued herein.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. Claims 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lub (US 6,660,344) and further in view of Farrand et al. (US 6,183,822).

The present claims differ from the claims of US '344 in that the claims of US '344 did not claim the method of producing a liquid crystal film. However, Lub did teaches a method of making an electro-optical device comprising one or more dioxetane compounds of formula 1 comprising the steps of: (a) forming a cell comprising two cell walls spaced apart, the walls inner surfaces having formed thereon electrode structures; (b) providing a mixture comprising a monomer material comprising one or more dioxetane compounds of formula 1 and a suitable initiator, preferably a photo-initiator; (c) introducing said mixture between the cell walls; and (d) polymerizing the mixture as described above. Preferably at least one wall is surface treated to provide liquid crystal alignment. Lub also teaches the dioxetane compounds of formula I or compositions comprising one or more dioxetane compounds of formula I, which are usually dissolved in a suitable solvent and mixed with a suitable cationic photoinitiator. See examples 7-9.

Although Lub did not claim the method of producing a liquid crystal film comprising dioxetane of formula (I), it would have been obvious to those skilled in the art to utilize and optimize Farrand's method by polymerizing a polymerizable liquid crystal composition comprising a dioxetane of Lub to arrive at the present liquid crystal film because Farrand (US '822) discloses the method of preparing anisotropic polymer film (nematic or cholesteric polymer film) by polymerizing liquid crystal composition comprising at least one polymerizable mesogenic compound with possible to use a cationic photoinitiator (see col. 1, lines 18-24 and col. 13, lines 25-57).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6/24/05, with respect to the potential interference with US 6,660,344 have been fully considered. However, upon further consideration, a new ground of rejection is made in view of Farrand et al. (US 6,183,822).
